RECOUNT

SEQUENCE

A sequence is a series of actions or events which happen in a particular order. Usually the order is from first to last. Rewrite these events in sequence, from first to last. The story is about one of the famous artists from the MAMBO brand, Reg Mombassa (whose real name is Chris O'Dougherty).

- He studied art at the National Art School in New Zealand.
- In 2001, Reg Mombassa appeared in a national TV advertisement for the ABC.
- Chris had his first one man show in 1986, and changed his name to Reg Mombassa.
- Some of Mombassa's designs for Mambo cartoons were used for the uniforms of the Australian Olympic Team at the Sydney 2000 Olympics. Mambo characters in the form of gigantic blow up figures were also featured during the Opening Ceremony.
- Chris O'Dougherty was born in New Zealand in 1951.
- After one of his exhibitions, Mombassa met the Managing Director of Mambo, Dave Jennings, who asked him to contribute designs for Mambo.
- O'Dougherty formed the band "Mental as Anything" in 1979 and toured the world, while staging regular art exhibitions.
- Chris O'Dougherty and his family moved to Australia when he was 18 years old.
